

YELLOWHEAD TRAIL

FREEWAY CONVERSION PROGRAM

Construction Bulletin

St. Albert Trail to 97 Street

November 10, 2023

Project Overview

As part of the Yellowhead Trail Freeway Conversion Program, the City of Edmonton has begun pre-construction work between St. Albert Trail and 97 Street. Ultimately, Yellowhead Trail will have three lanes of free-flowing traffic in each direction with new interchanges at 127 Street and 121 Street.

Purpose of Bulletin

To provide awareness of construction activities and traffic pattern changes taking place at the intersection of Yellowhead Trail and 127 Street throughout November.

Upcoming Traffic Pattern Changes

- Starting on Sunday, November 12, eastbound traffic on Yellowhead Trail will be shifted to the newly constructed detour lanes. As a result, the left-hand turn to travel northbound on 127 Street will be removed as part of the detour plan.
- The weekend of November 18, westbound traffic on Yellowhead Trail will be shifted to the newly constructed detour lanes. Through traffic and right turns will be maintained.
- The weekend of November 25, all traffic on 127 Street is expected to transition to the newly constructed detour lanes. This will be the ultimate detour configuration. With this configuration, all left turns will be prohibited, and the intersection will support two lanes of through traffic and right-hand turns only. A diagram of the ultimate intersection configuration is included on the last page of this bulletin.

Please be advised that construction schedules are subject to change based on weather. Road users should expect delays during the implementation of the detour road segments.
